News from the Principal:

With the arrival of March, we can only hope for warmer weather as we are within a month of spring officially beginning. Hopefully, more sunshine and warmer temperatures are in our near future, as it is very clear the students are eagerly anticipating outdoor recesses and upcoming field trips.

We have Right to Read Week from March 3rd through the 7th, during which students will participate in multiple fun reading activities. Thank you to Mrs. Munchel for spearheading this event for our students and staff!

Throughout March, we will continue working hard academically in preparation for the Ohio State Test, which will take place in April. As we prepare for testing, there are things that can be encouraged by you at home to help your child perform their best. A few examples include:

- Ensuring quality sleep prior to testing
- Eating a healthy breakfast on testing days
- Reading all directions and questions carefully, and to reread if necessary
- Thinking positive thoughts prior to the tests
- Checking their work when they are finished
- Reassuring them that they are going to do great!

Once testing is over, students can look forward to some fun academic activities that their teachers have planned for them.

In closing, thank you for your continued support in your child's education. You are a valuable, if not the most valuable, piece of their success. As always, if you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me at 937-996-1511.

Respectfully,

Shane Mead

Principal
